9:00am-11:30am: Session One – Using Discourse to Build Mathematical Understanding

11:30am-12:30pm: Lunch

12:30pm-2:30pm: Session Two – Developing Number Sense and Fluency through Classroom Routines

Session Description

Morning Session:

Using Discourse to Build Mathematical Understanding

Why is discourse in the mathematics classroom so important? What does it look like? How can I develop discourse with my students? Let's get the answers to these and other questions about building meaningful discourse as a key to effective mathematics instructions in K-12 math classrooms. Come prepared to THINK and TALK!

Afternoon Session:

Developing Number Sense and Fluency through Classroom Routines

My students don't have any number sense!!! Is this something you find yourself saying over and over? Let's look at some short routines that can be adapted to any grade from kindergarten through middle school that will help students think more deeply about how numbers work, what operations mean, developing fluency with basic facts and working with rational numbers. And...how to get started tomorrow!
